VOL CXXXI—21. ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA, MONDAY, JANUARY 25, 1915. PRICE, 2 CENTS

HOSPITAL SITE CAUSES TROUBLE

Board of Trustees Hope to Reach Final Decision at Meeting Tonight

MAY DELAY BUILDING

Daingerfield Property the Bone of Contention Between Factions in Hospital Management.

The immediate erection of the new building for the Alexandria Hospital for which the people of Alexandria have subscribed nearly $40,000 may be delayed by a disagreement which has broken out among the trustees, board of lady managers and hospital staff, over the selection of a site for the building. A joint meeting of the three boards has been called tonight for the purpose of trying to arrive at a definite decision as to the location of the building. The meeting will be held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce at 8 o'clock and there is every prospect of a lively discussion between those interested in the selection of the site.

Shortly after the hospital fund was subscribed the trustees named a site committee which made an exhaustive study of each piece of property in Alexandria which was available for a site. Among the places considered was the present location at the corner of Pitt and Wolfe street, the Daingerfield property at the corner of Washington and Duke street, George Washington Park, at the top of Shooter's Hill, the Baggett property at the end of King street, and the square of ground in the northwest section of the city, bounded by Columbus, Wythe, Pendleton and Alfred streets The latter was finally purchased for the site at a cost of $7,500. Several weeks ago E. L. Daingerfield, president of the Citizens' National Bank, made another offer for his property on south Washington street. He agreed to sell it to the hospital as a site for $10,000, payable $1,000 per annum, without interest. The lot is improved by the Daingerfield residence, one of the handsomest homes in this city, and is said to have a market value far in excess of the price at which it was offered.

The trustees referred the offer to the lady board of managers and the hospital staff of physicians and at a recent meeting, after considerable discussion, they decided to recommend the acceptance of Mr. Daingerfield's offer. The trustees, who have the final decision, will act on their report tonight.

In the meanwhile there has developed a determined opposition to the Daingerfield site. A number of property owners in the neighborhood and the Sisters of the Holy Cross, who conduct St. Mary's Academy, a large boarding school for girls in the same square, have conducted a vigorous campaign against the location. A spirited newspaper controversy has been going on for several days in which the disadvantages of the proposed location have been brought out. D. J. Howell, a well-known civil engineer with offices in Washington, and residence at the corner of Duke and Washington streets, has conducted the fight against the Daingerfield site.

There is still a large number of subscribers to the hospital fund who think that the new building should be located on the property already owned by the hospital at the corner of Wolfe and Pitt street, and a compromise may be reached tonight on that location.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our most sincere thanks to our friends who so kindly expressed their sympathy during our recent bereavement.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Two hundred and seventy-eight peace meetings authorized by the government were held in different parts of Hungary yesterday. Indignation at the high price of food was expressed and separation from Austria was advocated.

An attempt on the life of Field Marshal von der Goltz at Constantinople is reported from Jaffa. The marshal was fired at and is believed to have been hit. Several other officers were attacked at the same time. Strained relations exist between the German and Turkish officers and quarrels in public are not infrequent. In a cafe disturbance at Damascus recently a captain of the Turkish army was killed and a German consul was wounded.

SEES HIS WIFE KILLED.

Mrs. Edward Temple Struck by Baltimore And Ohio Express at Bradshaw.

Baltimore, Jan .25.—Mrs. Nellie Temple, wife of Edward Temple, near Fork, Baltimore county, was instantly killed at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning by a Baltimore and Ohio express train at Bradshaw Station.

Her husband was an eyewitness of her tragedy. He had taken her to the station to board the local train from Baltimore to visit a sick relative in Pennsylvania.

When the express was nearing the station Mrs. Temple started to cross the tracks, thinking that it was her train. Mr. Temple followed and, seeing the danger, called to his wife to come back. He also tried to catch her before she was struck, but she did not hear him. The engineer brought his train to a stop and hurried back, thinking he had killed both.

The body, which was horribly mangled, was picked up by the husband and others at the station.

Mrs. Temple was 55 years old.

REV. DR. PAGE GRANDFATHER.

A telegram received by Rev. Frank Page, of Fairfax, Wednesday announced the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Gaynor, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The baby was born Wednesday morning. Mother and son are doing well. Mrs. Gaynor is Dr. Page's youngest daughter, Betsy.

Dr. Frank Page met with quite a serious accident last week. When nearly opposite the public school house the buggy shafts became detached from the vehicle, in which he was riding, causing the horse to run away. In jumping from the vehicle Dr. Page was so unfortunate as to receive some painful cuts and bruises about his head and face.

GERMAN AVIATORS RAID

French Tri-Color on Aeros' Wings and Kaiser's Airmen in Allied Uniform

London, Jan. 25—That German aeroplanes, engaged in the world's first great air battle over Dunkirk Friday, bore the tri-color of French painted on the under side of their wings, was reported in dispatches from the British battle front in Flanders today.

As a further disguise, the twelve German aviators wore uniforms of allied soldiers, the messages said. It was because of this fact that the Germans passed the allies' lines near Nieuport without detection and had begun shelling Dunkirk before they were fired upon.

Nine persons were killed and twelve wounded by the Germans before British airmen engaged them and drove them to the north. The dispatches carry no confirmation of the report from Paris that Benjamin Morel, American consular agent at Dunkirk was slightly wounded when a shell partially wrecked the American consulate.

A finfie of $20 was imposed in the case of A. H. Phillips colored, in police court today on a charge of assault on Mary Allen, colored, with a knife.

Telegram from Lisbon says the Portuguese cabinet has resigned on account of differences with President Arriaga.

BRITISH SINK GERMAN SHIP

Exciting Engagement Takes Place in North Sea Yesterday.

DESTROY BLEUCHER.

Germans Allege English Man-of-War Was Sunk—This is Denied by the British Admiralty.

London, Jan. 25—The admiralty issued the following statement:

"Early yesterday morning the British patroling squadron of battle cruisers and light cruisers, under Vice-Admiral Beatty, with a destroyer flotilla under Commodore Tyrwhitt, sighted four German battle cruisers, several light cruisers and a number of destroyers, steering westward, and apparently making for the English coast.

"The enemy made for home at high speed. They were at once pursued, and about 9:30 A. M. the action was joined between the battle cruisers Lion, Tiger, Princess Royal, New Zealand and Indomitable, on the one hand, and the Derflinger, Seydlitz, Moltke and Bleucher. A running fight ensued.

"Shortly after 1 o'clock the Bluecher, which previously had fallen out of line, capsized and sank.

"Vice-Admiral Beatty reports that two of the other German battle cruisers were seriously damaged. They were however able to continue their flight and reach an area where the dangers from German submarine and mine prevented further pursuit.

"No British ships were lost. Our casualties in personel are at present reported to be slight, the Lion, which led the line having only eleven wounded and none killed.

"One hundred and twenty three survivors were rescued from the Bluecher's crew of 885. It is possible that others were saved by some of our destroyers.

Berlin, Jan. 25—Destruction of a British battle cruiser in the great naval engagement in the North Sea Sunday morning is claimed in an official statement given out here today. The German war office admits the loss of the Bluecher, but declares other German cruisers engaged returned to the German naval base without material damage. The British, the statement declares, "discontinued the battle seventy miles westnorthwest of Heligoland."

London, Jan. 25—The official statement from the British admiralty contains no mention of the reported sinking of a British battle cruiser in the North Sea engagement.

London, Jan. 25—Reports that a four funneled German cruiser badly damaged was sighted off the Holland coast early today strengthened the growing conviction here that Germany's loss in yesterday's North Sea battle were greater than indicated by the admiralty's official statement.

Dutch reports said a crippled cruiser, apparently of the type of the Strassburg or the armored cruiser Roon, was limping at half speed toward the island of Borkum, off the mouth of the Ems river. That the German war craft was one of the lighter cruisers engaged by British destroyers after the Bluecher had been sent to the bottom was the belief in naval circles here. The admiralty today had no details of this supplementary engagement.

VIOLATE LABOR LAWS

A recent visit to Alexandria of an inspector of the state labor department resulted in the issuance of warrants for ten firms in the city charging violation of the state labor laws all being reported to Labor Commissioner Doherty. One firm is charged with violating the child labor law; one the sanitary law; eight others the ten-hour law. All of these cases will be tried Thursday morning before Police Justice Caton.

INTERESTING DECISION

Interpretation of Byrd Liquor Law in Police Court.

An interesting decision effecting the Byrd liquor law was rendered in police court this morning by Justice H. B. Caton which may have a wide effect on the question of selling or dispensing liquor on Sunday. According to the police they have noticed a colored man named David Green visit the saloon of William Hammersley, at the cornor of Cameron and Henry streets, for several Sunday mornings past. They suspected Green of selling liquor on Sunday and yesterday Sergeant Scott and Officer Nicholson lay in wait for him. When he left the place at 12 o'clock they placed him under arrest and found on his person two full bottles of whiskey, one containing a pint and the other a half pint. He was locked up charged with having liquor in his possession on Sunday although there is no violation of the statute in having that quantity of liquor on one's person. No evidence was introduced that the man had endeavored to sell the liquor.

When the evidence was heard William Hammersley, the proprietor of the saloon, stated that the man had purchased the liquor from him Saturday night and had told him to send it to his home by a negro cook. The girl had failed to do this and the man came on Sunday for the liquor and secured it. He had gotten it from the kitchen and Mr. Hammersley denied that he had anything to do with giving it to the man.

Justice Caton, in rendering a decision, stated that there was no charge upon which Green could be held and the only charge that could be made against Mr. Hammersley was for either selling or dispensing liquor on Sunday. As there was no evidence that he had sold the liquor on Sunday the only remaining charge was one of dispensing and as it had been shown that the liquor did not belong to Mr. Hammersley and that he had no actual knowledge that it had been given to the man on Sunday morning he could not be held for dispensing. He therefore dismissed the case.

FORMER RESIDENT WEDS.

Joshua Millard Complies With Dying Spouse's Wish.

Complying with the dying wish of his wife, Joshia Millard, 89 years old, who claims he was the first prisoner taken in the civil war and whose home is at 4802 Old Pimlico road, Arlington, near Baltimore, married Miss Martha Elizabeth Streeks, 63 years old, of the same address, who nursed Mr. Millard's first wife through all her illness.

Seated in an armchair prior to the wedding yesterday Mr. Millard gave the history of his life.

He was once the owner of a large tract in Loudoun county, Va., and when the war between the states broke out he was taken prisoner by the Confederates and his estate was confiscated, resulting in a loss to him of about $12,000 .Colonel Gray, the Confederate officer who ordered his arrest, had him bound hand and foot and he was later confined to Culpeper jail, and was released after considerable litigation. He is the only living juryman who indicted President Jefferson Davis, of the Southern Confederacy. For 30 years after the war he held a position at the Washington postoffice and internal revenue department in Washington, D. C., where he resided up until five years ago, when his wife died. His present wife had taken care of his first wife and the aged man for 20 years. From the time he was 21 years old he has voted for every Republican president but once. Although far advanced in years, he can read without the aid of glasses.

In 1863 he was appointed assesor of internal revenue, with offices at Alexandria, Va., and was removed by President Johnson and reappointed by President Grant. He has held many private offices.

Mr. Millard is remembered by many old Alexandrians. During the civil war and for a short time subsequent he resided here and took a prominent part in politics.

PROSPERITY AGAIN SWEEPS OVER SOUTH

Wonderful Recuperative Power of Cotton-Growing States

EFFECT ON BUSINESS.

Value of Cotton Advanced $120,000,000—Increase Belongs to South—Growing Optimism.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—Notable improvement in business conditions in the South within the last few weeks is indicated in reports from merchants, cotton factors and bankers from all over the section. The last month, in particular, business men assert, has developed the recuperative power of the cotton States. In all these States, cotton, which was selling a few months ago for a little more than 6 cents a pound, now is finding a comparatively ready market at above 8 cents.

Since the government report of November 1, the increase of 2 cents a pound in the selling price of cotton, with the corresponding advance in the price of cotton seed, according to the figures and estimates of experts, has resulted in a net increase during this period of approximately $120,000,000 in the cash value of cotton. The effect of this enhanced value, it is stated, has been felt in every line of business in the South.

Conservative observers of the situation say that never has there been such a holding movement in the South as that noted since the opening of the present cotton season. At the outbreak of the European war, fall deliveries of cotton ranged from 12 to 13 cents a pound, which, with a crop estimated at more than 16,000,000 bales, forecast a season of remarkable activity. With the European markets suddenly closed and the exchanges suspended, the price abruptly decreased about one half.

When the mills entered the market for their usual fall supply they found the market closed. Farmers refused to sell and Southern business, which depends so much on the moving of the cotton crop, marked time making readjustment of conditions. About December 1, improvement began, owing, it is said, to the resumption of foreign shipments and the adjustment and reopening of the exchange markets both at home and abroad. At this time, throughout the South, the movement of cotton from farm to market is steadily progressing, and as a result, according to reliable reports, the farmers are paying their debts to the merchants for supplies, the merchants are meeting their obligations to the small banks, and they, in turn, are settling their accounts with the larger banks. The general business tone is declared optimistic.

In a statistical statement of the situation, H. G. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, mentions that on November 1, last, the Federal Department of Agriculture figured the average price of cotton to producers at about $31.50 per bale, while today the same bale is worth about $10 more.

MADE HIS OWN COFFIN.

Consumptive Declared it Was Fascinating Work.

Falls Mills, W. Va., Jan. 25—After carefully making his own coffin and calmly waiting for the end, Samuel Newton Sarver rests in the magnificent receptacle that was his own handwork in the cemetery near here.

Sarver became afflicted with tuberculosis and, seeing that the end was inevitable, he set to work on his own coffin. He told friends that the making of a coffin was the most fascinating work he had ever done.

It was a beautiful piece of work, carved on its sides and top, and then boxed carefully and stored away under the rear porch.

WHEELS ALMOST AT STANDSTILL

One-third of Special Session of Legislature Already Passed.

MONEY TAX UP TODAY

Both Branches Continue to Admit Bills of Trivial Character and Defer More Important Business.

Richmond Jan. 25—Results are expected in the General Assembly before the week ends. Nearly two weeks of the special session called to revise the tax code have slipped away, and there is little to show for what has been accomplished during the ten working days the lawmakers have been in session.

Choice between the two plans of reform proposed—segregation and commission—may be made this week, and in this event the final vote on the adoption of a method of revising the tax code will soon follow.

In the House segregationists believe their battle has already been fought and won, but in the Senate a different situation is presented. There the division line between advocates of both plans is more sharply drawn, and in the Senate chamber the most vigorous encounter is expected.

The Weaver-Buchanan bill or the so-called "administration plan," it is thought, will be greeted by strong opposition in the Senate, and there are many who are firm in the belief that the measure will never pass in its present form. Segregationists are firm in the opinion that the passage of this measure offers the sole solution of Virginia's tax problems, while on the other hand centralization advocates are sounding the warning that the enactment of some of the features of the administration bill will correct none of the existing evils and will only serve to render the tax puzzle more intricate.

A favorite argument used by those advocating the creation of a central tax commission is that the system is being successfully operated in many other States, and they further contend that segregation has failed wherever it has been adopted. The segregationists say they want "home rule," They contend that it would be impossible for a central board at the State Capitol to make fair assessments in the various sections of the State, and that "the people" will never submit to such a procedure. Objection is also made to the expense of creating another board, with its consequent clerks and attendants.

The money tax question promises to be a live issue to-day. Leaders of both branches of the General Assembly will hold a conference to discuss the measure, and the House Finance Committee, when it meets at 10 o'clock this morning, will also consider the question.

Without much opposition local emergency bills, in no way related to tax questions, have been pouring into both houses of the Legislature. Now that attention has been given to nearly all "emergency" legislation it is thought that few resolutions asking that local bills be introduced will be passed during the remainder of session.

CHARTER GRANTED.

The State Corporation Commission at Richmond has granted a charter to the Indianapolis-Detroit-Washington Company, with principal office at South Washington, Alexandria county, for the purpose of engaging in the automobile business. Several German figures were led by the dainty hostess, and Thomas B. Cochran, 3d, of The Plains. The march presented a beautiful picture as about sixty little couples wound in and out of the figures, each face beaming with excitement from under a gay tasseled cap, the favor given at the opening figure. At ten o'clock the ices were served and shortly afterwards a rain of sepentinas amidst blowing of horns completed the program, which was interpersed with fox trots, maxixes, hesitations, and one steps.

Those enjoying the hospitality of the pretty wee hostess were: Miss Elizabeth Skinker, Miss Cora Lee Cochran, Miss Kittye Reid, Neal Knox, Thos. B. Cochran, 3d, Geo. B. The reception was held at the Weil residence from three to ten o'clock, but previous to that time a delightful dinner was served at the Hotel Rammel to the immediate families.

FOOTPAD STILL AT WORK

Mrs. J. Frank Carlin Relieved of Money And Valuables on Alfred Street, Near King.

A daring robbery took place on Alfred street, just half a block from King street, at 9:50 o'clock Saturday night, when an unknown negro grabbed a hand bag from Mrs. Frank Carlin, of 117 south Alfred street, whose husband is assistant station master of the Union station Washington, and a brother of Representative C. C. Carlin. The bag contained between $50 and $60 in cash, a gold watch set with diamonds, a ladies' long watch chain, a pair of gold cuff buttons, set with pearls, and a breast pin.

When the negro grabbed the bag Mrs. Carlin made a plucky fight to retain possession of her property. She held on to the handle and was partially dragged by the negro to the mouth of an alley running west from Alfred street. She screamed for help but before several men who were on the street could reach her the negro had wrenched her hand loose and made his escape through the alley.

Mrs. Carlin had been shopping on King street and believed the man followed her from a store where she had made some purchases.

This is the second robbery of the same kind that has occurred at the same spot recently. On January 6th Mrs. Jacob Biddle was robbed of a pocket book by a negro who ran down the alley and made his escape. On January 7th Miss Mary Fettit was knocked down by a negro man on south Washington street and her pocketbook containing a considerable sum of money and a railway ticket was taken. On January 8th Matilda Preston, a colored nurse, had her pocketbook grabbed by an unknown negro. It contained $68.

Miss Weil received a number of handsome presents from her friends. The marriage will not take place until the early summer.

Hon. J. Fred Birrell, member of the Virginia House of Delegates, who has been attending the sessions of the state legislature in Richmond, spent Sunday with his family in this city, returning to Richmond today.

Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett, president of the National Council of Women, left yesterday for Lexington, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Percy Evans, of Hillsfield Farm," Hume Virginia, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Douglass, at their home in Cameron street.

The Good Shepherd Guild has completed arrangements for the musical to be given under their auspices at the Norton Memorial at eight o'clock this evening. As previously announced, the "Seminary Quartette" will sing. Others taking part in the program will be Mrs. Sherman Fowler, Mrs. Harrie White, Miss Hilda Schneider, Miss Hattie Pollard, Mrs. Rollins and Messrs. Lloyd Craighill and Valentine Lee, of the Seminary.

RICHMOND THEATER.

The program at the Richmond tomorrow afternoon and night is given up entirely to the photo-dramatization of one of the most famous books ever read by the American public, composed of six acts. The production is presented by the General Film Company and written by Eugene Walter, author of "The Easiest Way," "Paid in Full," "A Plain Woman," and is pronounced as being intensely dramatic from beginning to end. The picture has been shown to packed houses wherever displayed and will be shown at the Richmond tomorrow.

Rain, Snow, Hail And Sleet During the Past Forty-eight Hours.

Last week closed under dismal meterological conditions and the present opened under the same. There were rain and snow Saturday night, and throughout yesterday rain fell at intervals, followed by hail at night. The streets became glazed with sleet and walking was difficult and dangerous. There were but few pedestrians on the streets during the day, and after dark the number was still less, as but few apart from those whose duties called them out left their homes. The wind, which was from the northeast, came in sudden flaws, but it was not of alarming force, although it whistled and moaned through the telephone, telegraph and electric wires.

At an early hour this morning Alexandria was clothed in crystal. The trees were decorated with glistening icicles, while sidewalks and rondways were no thoroughfares for the timid. It was virtually impossible to walk upon sidewalks, and the middle of the road was the principal highway for all who were compelled to come out of their houses. Some of these, being paved with vitrified brick, were as uncertain to pedestrians as the granolithic sidewalks.

The weather today has been dismal and threatening, with the wind still from the northeast.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

Deacon and Officers of Missionary Society Elected.

Owing to the inclement weather of yesterday the attendance of the Sunday school was not as large as on previous Sundays; yet, despite the weather, there were 374 in attendance. The school's contribution yesterday amounted to $42.24, which was its monthly contribution to the Baptist Orphenage at Salem Va.

At the morning services of the church one candidate was received for captism, and following the regular church services the church proceeded to the election of a Deacon to fill a vacancy on the Board of Deacons. Judge C. E. Nicol was the church's unanimous choice.

In the afternoon the Sun Beam Missionary Society held its semi-monthly meeting, at which the semi-annual election of officers was held with the following results.

President, Alice Hudson.
Vice President, Keith Wade.
Secretary, Elva Watters, Asst. secretary, A. Dale Mansfield.
Treasurer, and Pianist, Louise Adams.

At the B. Y. P. U. services, at 6:45 P. M., as well as the regular evening services of the church, the attendance was reasonably large, in view of the very inclement weather.

FOOTPADS AND FIREBUGS.

Another woman was held up and robbed by a highwayman within a stone's throw of King street, our principal thoroughfare, between nine and ten o'clock last Saturday night. Over fifty dollars in money and a watch and some jewelry were taken by the footpad. The victim during the scuffle saw that the robber was a negro. The black, after securing the plunder, made his escape through the alley.

This is one of a series of robberies which have occurred in Alexandria during the past few weeks. In each instance a woman has been the victim. On most of the other occasions the females which have been held up and robbed were not so sure the footpad was of the African race. The last victim is positive he is.

The increasing number of street robberies in Alexandria has become exasperating. So far, not one of the guilty parties has fallen into the hands of the authorities, although every effort has been made to identify the highwayman.

The man engaged in this work seems to know that his victims have money on their persons, and generally more than the average amount of shopping change. The nurse who was relieved of her purse a few nights ago lost about as much as the lady last Saturday night.

Females should, when possible, have male attendants when they appear upon the streets at night, they should also cease to carry pocketbooks in their hands, or make displays of handbags and other receptacles for money.

While a number of incendiary fires have occurred in the southeast section of the city recently, it is learned that attempts have also been made to start other blazes in the section. Two attempts were made recently to start fires at a manufacturing plant, coal oil having been used upon one occasion. Fortunately the preparations for the blaze were discovered and the conflagration prevented.

We will not suggest a vigilance committee, an institution which was essential in the early history of California, but we do suggest that it is incumbent upon every citizen to vie with the authorities in endeavoring to identify these fiends who are assaulting and robbing females almost under the glare of electric lights, and causing terror by nocturnal conflagrations.

THE GERMAN-AMERICAN ELEMENT.

A weekly paper, a new venture in the periodical world, published in New York in the interest of Germany, is calling upon the German-Americans to organize. The paper also appeals to Austro-Hungarians to join the ranks of sympathizers with the Kaiser in the present war.

The ostensible object, the paper says, is to break the the power of England over the United States. It is not believed that the article will exercise influence to any extent upon the many citizens of the United States who were born in Germany, Austria and Hungary, as the great majority are enjoying conditions in this land far more satisfactory than in the old countries from which most of them were driven by the military burdens which had been imposed upon them.

Such of them, however, who may be overflowing with enthusiasm for Germany have the undoubted right to return to their homes as soon as possible and enter into the ranks. This is the proper way to show patriotism. The same may be said to the French and English among us who may be dissatisfied because the United States fails to show any thing but friendship for the combatants of all countries engaged in the conflict.

The writer of the article referred to above laments the fact that Carl Schurz is not alive to organize the pro-German elements.

Schurz was a brigadier general on the northern side during the war between the states. He was republican and some time after the war he was a Senator from Missouri. While he was alive he was supposed by his admirers to carry the German vote in his pocket. In 1872, when Horace Greeley was picked up by the democrats to oppose President Ulysses S. Grant, the latter had lost favor with some republican leaders, Among this number were Senator Charles Sumner, of Massachusetts, and Carl Schurz. The latter, it was believed, would be able to corral all the German vote for Greeley. But the result showed that his influence with that element was a myth. Greeley was one of the most thoroughly defeated men who ever ran for president. The good sense of the many Germans of this day and generation would probably pay as little regard to Schurz now as did they in 1872, when it was supposed he carried the Teutonic vote in his pocket.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

Our esteemed cotemporary, the Richmond Times Dispatch, contains the following reference to a recent editorial of the Gazette:

"It seems strange," says the Alexandria Gazette, "that while pulpits throughout the country are filled by preachers trained in theological seminaries who have made the Bible and spiritual matters close studies often find their voices reverberating around empty pews, while thousands of people are being turned away at halls where so-called evangelists are delivering addresses. Is it the fault of the minister or the people? While we fail to see the lasting good from the many religious upheavals brought about by self-constituted preachers who are responsible to no one for what they say or the doctrines they proclaim, the fact remains that they are generally drawing cards at a time when it is impossible to fill the pews of the established churches." Perhaps part of the problem would be solved if Billy Sunday could be induced to accept a chair in some well-attended theological seminary.

The Gazette never thought of this before, and the suggestion carries us back to the days of Martin Luther. When the reformer started on his crusade his course was discussed by a number of cardinals upon one occasion. Some advocated excommunication and others more drastic measures in order to muzzle the German monk. An old and wily member of the sacred college, who took no part in the interchange of opinion, was asked what course he thought the best in the emergency. He smiled and replied, "Make the man a bishop."

BRITISH NAVY FRUSTRATES RAID.

The British Lion was not caught napping yesterday, although it was Sunday, and the noble beast is now roaring at the German eagle which is within its mine zone and fortifications with its feathers greatly disturbed. The attempt to repeat the act of last month by bombarding English coast cities while the inhabitants were in their respective places of worship proved disastrous to the Kaiser. One of his principal dreadnaughts is at the bottom of the North Sea and others are damaged and ready to sink. Had the German ships not taken refuge in the mine and submarine zone and behind fortifications, Dewey day at Manila and Schley day at Santiago would have been repeated. There would not have been left a ship of the German fleet which was engaged in the sally. At least six hundred of the Kaiser's men have gone to a watery grave.

The boast of the Germans that they would carry the war into England has not crystalized, to any extent, so far. It is true they did fire bombs into three English towns and succeeded in killing several non-combattants. They have also dropped bombs from Zepplins, but the work of destruction has necessarily been small. While the many people of the British Isle have been terrorized by these acts upon the part of their enemies, their nerves have become settled, and in a little while they will experience no more from Zeppelins than they will during the thunder storms of the coming summer.

During the present war the question has often been asked, "Where is the British navy?' It seems to have been at the right place and right hour yesterday.

THE HOSPITAL SITE.

To the Editor Alexandria Gazette:

The discussion in the columns of the Gazette of a suitable site for the new Alexandria Hospital and the noisy location of the site offered by Mr. Daingerfield has prompted the following apt remarks in a letter received from an out of town correspondent:

"If Alexandria is still living up to her reputation, I should think she could find ample territory that might be described as "quiet" in which to locate a hospital. Why in the world select the one riotous spot. I think it was Mark Twain who said there was only one dry spot in North Carolina, and that was his well. I presume there are several noisy spots in Alexandria but these exceptions are probably all because of the places being set apart "to rear the tender thought, to teach the young idea how to shoot."

STORM LASHES COAST

Two Vessels Driven Ashore and Abandoned Near Hatteras.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 25—The entire Virginia coast was swept by a severe northeast gale last night. Two vessels have been driven on the treacherous beach near Hatteras and battered so bad by the seas and wind they had to be abandoned by their crews.

Life savers at Hatteras report an unknown yacht ashore near Diamond Shoals, but the sea i sso high they have been unable to reach her. Her lines are barely visible through the mist which hangs over the water. It has been raining for 24 hours and the wind is blowing 45 miles from the northeast.

With her sails blown away, her main mast broken and her decks awash, the schooner Mary L. Baxter, of Boston, is an abandoned wreck. She was caught in the gale last night and driven closer and closer to Diamond Shoals. Her crew took to the riggings when her seams opened and water flooded her decks. All night long they burned signals of distress, but no ships came to their assistance.

The wind had reached gale force and the rain beat down upon the helpless men in sheets of water. The vessel was helplessly drifting toward the beach.

When dawn broke the storm had not abated, but the Morgan Line steamer El Valle hove in sight. The men on the helpless schooner waved their hands frantically and burned more signals. The steamer came as near to the schooner as she could, but found it impossible to launch boats in the high seas. Several barrels of oil then were cast into the sea from the lee side of the ship.

The seas subsided considerably and two boats manned by volunteer crews were lowered from the ship. They reached the schooner through a veritable sea of oil and after considerable difficulty took off the imperiled men.

SUIT FOR DIVORCE.

Wife of Minister Brings Counter Charges Against Him.

Baltimore, Jan. 25.—Rev. J. Edward Snyder, a Methodist Episcopal clergymen, began his testimony Saturday in the Circuit Court in his suit for absolute divorce from his wife, Mrs. Ada L. Snyder, who has also brought a similar action against him.

Tears were in the eyes of Mr. Snyder all the time he was on the witness stand. Often he broke down, weeping, and often his frame was so convulsed by his sobbing that he could not go on. At times he tore his hair and gesticulated wildly.

According to his testimony, he saw his wife and Dr. George S. M. Kieffer in a compromising situation through a hole which he had made in a door with a knife. This, he said, was after he had received anonymous letters calling his attention to the intimacy of his wife and Dr. Kieffer.

Shortly after Mr. Hayes' arrival the bills of complaint of Mr. and Mrs. Snyder were amended so as to name the alleged correspondents. The name of Dr. George S. M. Kieffer, of Morrell Park, was inserted in the bill of Mr. Snyder, and the name of Mrs. Lillian M. Koons, of Union Bridge, Carroll County, in Mrs. Snyder's bill.

In her answer to her husband's bill for divorce Mrs. Snyder referred to a married woman and a colored girl without naming them.

Mr. Snyder and his wife are about the same age, and they are a good-looking couple. Both are of medium height and have black hair and dark eyes. Mrs. Snyder has a slender figure and small features.

Telegrapher Shoots His Wife And Three Children And Commits Suicide.

Butler, Pa., Jan. 25.—H. H. Woods, a telegraph operator of Harmony Junction, Butler county, yesterday shot and killed his wife and their three children and then committed suicide.

All the victims were shot in the forehead and death in each case is believed to have been instantaneous.

The bodies were found yesterday evening by E. L. Hilderbrand, who lives on the first floor and who investigated when Woods and his wife failed to attend church yesterday afternoon. Hilderbrand says he heard some noise on the second floor, occupied by Woods, early yesterday, but paid no attention to it.

Woods, who was 38 years old, was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. His victim were his wife, Alice, 32 years old, and three daughters—Fay, 15 years old; Rose Mary, 6, and Marjorie, 2.

ORDERED TEXAS TO HALT

British Ship Fires Across Bow of United States Battleship Texas

New York, Jan., 25—The following article appears in the Sunday edition of a German newspaper published here:

The limit of British "nerve has been accomplished by the captain of a British warship, who on December 26 dared to order the United States warship Texas to halt in close proximity to the harbor of New York, and fired a shot across the bow of the Texas when the order to halt was not carried out by the United States war vessel.

Highly indignant, Capt Grant came on deck. He did not even take time to dress himself. When he heard what had happened he immediately gave orders to "clear for action." That sufficed. As the British commander saw that the United States commander wouldn't be bluffed, he turned about and followed by the other British cruiser, steamed off.

One version of the story is that the British cruiser apologized before steaming away. Its captain is supposed to have explained that he could not see the flag of the Texas in the snowstorm and had thought her to be a German cruiser. But according to the weather report the day was clear and there was no snow fall.

Among them is a married woman Maria Irti, whose husband is in the United States Her pitiable case has attracted attention because she was buried in the ruins for seven days before being found by rescuers. Her home was at Ortuchio. During her imprisonment she had to watch her seven children, who were also imprisoned in the ruins die one by one. Her trial has driven her mad.

Only a few days before the earthquake she had received the savings of her husband, amounting to $600 which were to have taken her and her family to America.
